One of Reed's most notable techniques was his usage of the "claw" technique, which involved picking the bass strings with his thumb while simultaneously picking the melody with his other fingers. This allowed him to create a full sound that often sounded like multiple guitars playing at once. The claw technique became synonymous with Jerry Reed's guitar style, and it is a technique that many guitarists still try to master to this day.

Notable Songs

Jerry Reed had a vast discography of songs, including several chart-topping hits. His songs showcased his exceptional guitar playing, often featuring intricate solos and catchy rhythm parts. Some of Reed's most popular songs that highlight his guitar style include:

- "Guitar Man" - This song showcases Reed's blazing fast fingerpicking skills and infectious rhythm. The guitar intro alone is enough to captivate any listener.
- "Amos Moses" - Known for its catchy guitar riff and energetic groove, this song perfectly encapsulates the joy and liveliness of Jerry Reed's guitar playing.
- "The Claw" - A true staple of Jerry Reed's guitar repertoire, this instrumental track is a masterclass in fingerstyle and showcases his unparalleled skill on the guitar.
- "Jerry's Breakdown" - A collaboration with Chet Atkins, this song features intricate guitar solos and lightning-fast picking that will leave any aspiring guitarist in awe.
