Creating a Haven for Book Lovers

The founder of The Scribe Bean, Sarah Williams, had a vision of creating a haven for book lovers. As an avid reader herself, she understood the joy and solace that books can provide. Sarah wanted to build a place where people could gather, discuss literature, and share their love for reading.

To Sarah, The Scribe Bean is more than just a bookstore. It is a community center, a meeting place for like-minded individuals to connect and forge meaningful relationships. The bookstore regularly hosts book clubs, author signings, and literary events to foster a sense of camaraderie among its visitors.

The Experience of Visiting The Scribe Bean

Every visit to The Scribe Bean is a unique experience. As you browse through the shelves, you can get lost in the enchanting world of literature. The staff members are passionate readers themselves and are always willing to recommend their favorite books or engage in a thought-provoking conversation about literature.

One of the most enticing features of The Scribe Bean is their reading nooks. Tucked away in corners and alcoves, these cozy spaces invite visitors to relax, unwind, and lose themselves in the pages of a book. The calm and peaceful environment, coupled with the smell of old books, creates an atmosphere that book lovers find irresistible.

Supporting Local Authors

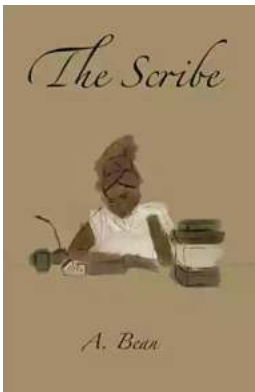

At The Scribe Bean, supporting local authors is a top priority. The bookstore actively promotes and showcases works by independent writers from the surrounding community. The shelves are adorned with signed copies and special editions, creating a sense of pride and encouragement for these talented individuals.

Additionally, The Scribe Bean hosts meet-and-greet events with local authors, providing a platform for them to connect with readers, share their writing journey, and inspire aspiring writers. This emphasis on local talent sets The Scribe Bean apart from larger chain bookstores and makes it a beacon of support for the literary community.

In a world where reading is a rare ability you must be born with, there are many who strive to become a Scribe. These are men of great stature, responsible for writing the legends of old. But there have only been twelve Scribes throughout history and the world desperately needs another. There is no shortage of young men lining up for scribal training, but this position isn't earned, it is chosen.

The only problem is that it's been decades and a new Scribe still hasn't surfaced ... or has she?

Amana Hart believes she was born with the Gift; the ability to understand and speak multiple languages without ever learning them beforehand. She can read and write in Arabic, French, Spanish, and more--but she must keep this a secret. Only men of great wealth and stature are supposed to have this ability, so when Amana decides she wants to pursue her dream of becoming a Scribe, she must take on a new identity and do it in secret.

Only God can keep Amana safe. The Scribal Institution will stop at nothing to silence the voice of liars and fakes. If she isn't careful, she could end up burned at the stake.

This is a standalone work of Christian Fantasy/Historical Fiction. A fictional take on the story of some of the greatest writers in history.
